Realizing the urgent need for the improvement of her public schools, North Carolina searched for a leader who could light the lamp of knowledge and point the way. She found such a one in Terry Sanford.

Through our yearbook we show our appreciation for his dedication to education. We can only hope that his successors will continue this good work and that the people of North Carolina will co-operate, combining their efforts for the development and support of quality education.

Capacity crowd fills gym for the Chamber of Commerce banquet.

The Hendersonville Chamber of Commerce held its annual dinner meeting at East Henderson High on February 24, 1961. Governor Terry Sanford was the guest of honor and featured speaker at a program honoring General Electric's Fifth Anniversary. Approximately six hundred persons from Henderson County and the neighboring areas attended this dinner meeting. East Henderson High was honored to be host to the Governor and our many friends. East Henderson is therefore doubly appreciative to the Chamber of Commerce and General Electric for selecting East High. Through this meeting, persons who might never have seen the quality of our school were able to become acquainted with our plant and its facilities.

Flags beside him and a huge audience before him, Governor Sanford delivers his speech.

Preparations fill every part of the gym as the banquet time nears.

D E D I C A T I O N

Mr. Hazeltine, a top geometry teacher, is a familiar figure on the East High campus. His warm personality has made him a favorite in the classroom, yet how many students realize his true worth?

He has been teaching and administrating for more than 40 years. Schools in Pennsylvania, Florida, and North Carolina have known his leading and teaching skills. He was head of his department for 3 years at Lee Edwards of Asheville, head master of the Asheville Country Day School for 4 years, taught at Dana and Flat Rock, and conducted his own school at Asheville for 16 years. That is proof enough of his patience and devotion. In his informal class sessions we have learned to think, to reason, to form ideas and express them to others. He has made geometry live for us, and we in turn have learned to live for geometry!!

If a student is to learn, he must want to learn. He must be encouraged. Mr. Hazeltine's enthusiasm and interest in geometry are sufficient to arouse a student's curiosity and efforts. Mr. Hazeltine has the art of encouragement. A special twinkle in his eye, a triumphant smile, a reassuring nod congratulate you for a job well done. Who can resist such an invitation to learn?

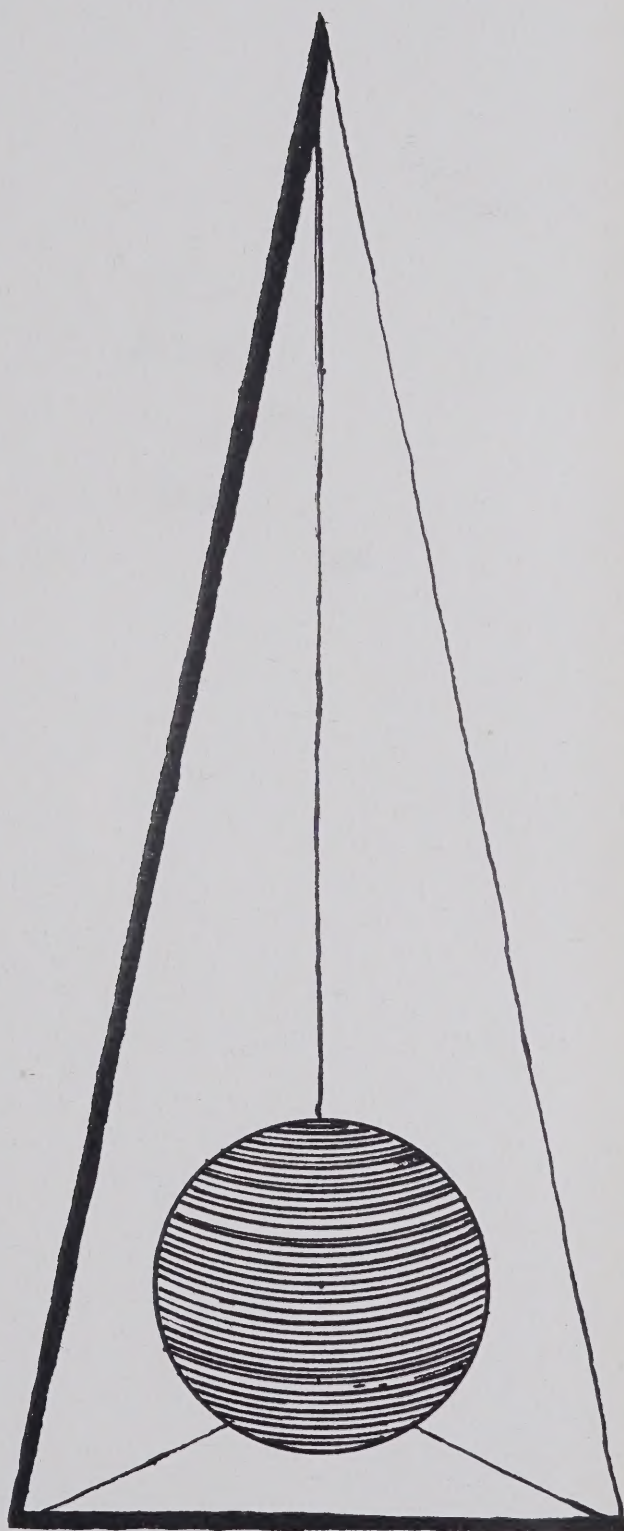

Our gratitude to him is great, yet the debt we owe to him as students is greater. It shall be paid perhaps not to him, but to the world. His students will soon be scattered throughout the world, paying their debt through useful application of what they have learned. We shall never forget you, Mr. Hazeltine, for you have left your mark on our minds and characters.

FOREWORD

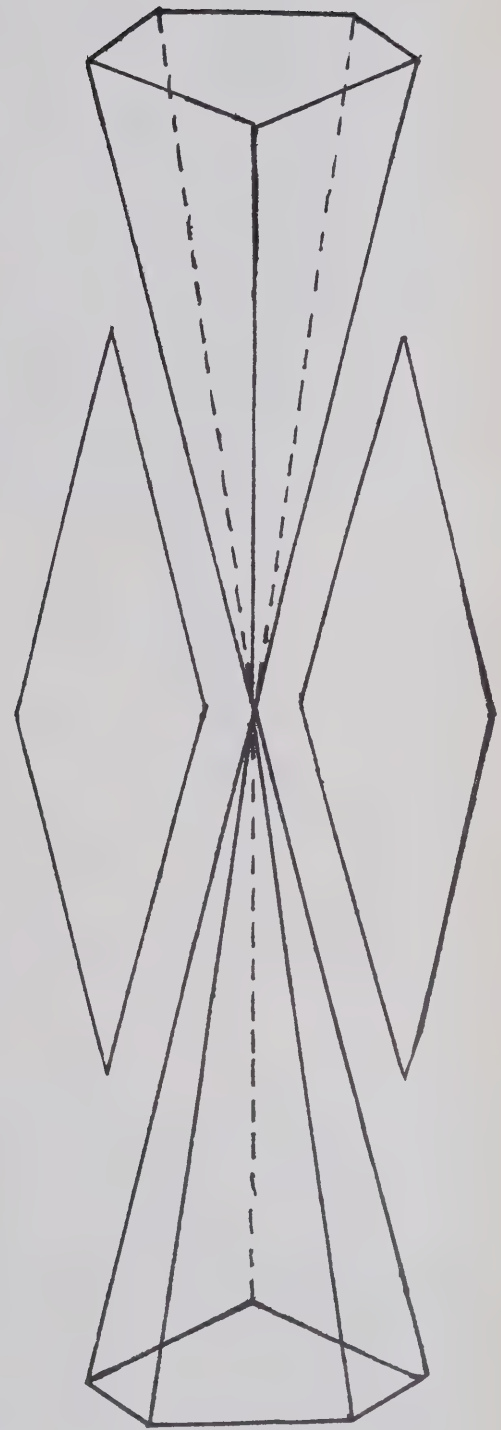

The Greeks, earliest of our cultural ancestors, believed geometry to be divine. In the beauty and simplicity of geometric design, they saw a pattern for our universe and a guiding force controlling its motions. We of the present, while giving no credence to the supernatural abilities of these designs, still find in their symmetry and congruency a pattern within nature—within life itself.

OUR TOWN

"I don't know why, but weddings always make me cry," sobs Mrs. Soames, portrayed by Jackie Mullinax.

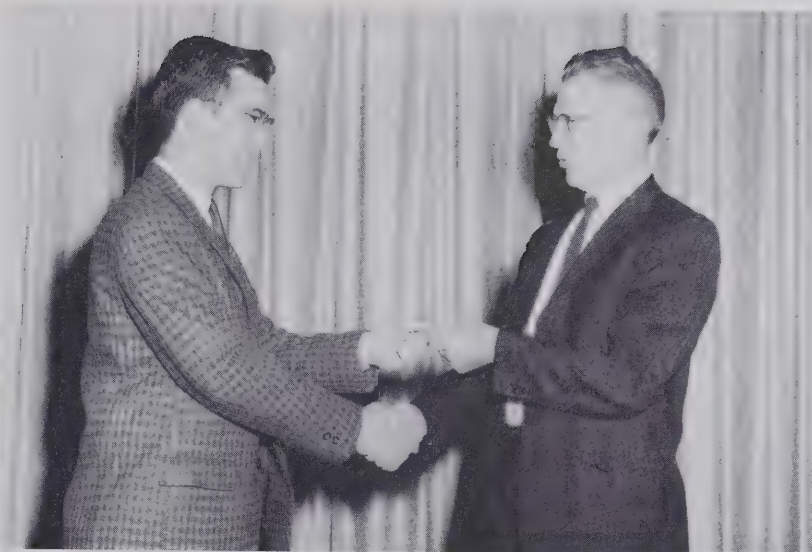

Moonlight and homework: Steve Duncan and Susie Corn study while father, Marion Young, meditates on the tribulations of raising a teenage son.

The audience applauded wildly as the curtain fell at the conclusion of the Senior class play, Our Town. Thornton Wilder's drama was in itself superb, but add the directing talent of Mrs. Nickell, the devoted efforts of our stars, Ronnie Oates, Susie Corn, Steve Duncan, and cast to this and the result is a drama deserving its capacity crowd. No, we'll never forget the wedding, the graveyard, or the warning "live life to the fullest while you have it." Many thanks to the Senior Class of 1961.

First U.N. Contest Sparks Interest

Student interest in the United Nations was keen with P.T.A. sponsorship of a high school world peace study and speaking program last March. Faculty advisors corrected first drafts and coached hesitant speakers, before local dignitaries, acting as judges, graded essays and heard presentations in a special school assembly. The theme, "The United Nations and World Peace" was especially appropriate as the winning student and faculty advisor would join other winners and sponsors for a bus trip to New York.

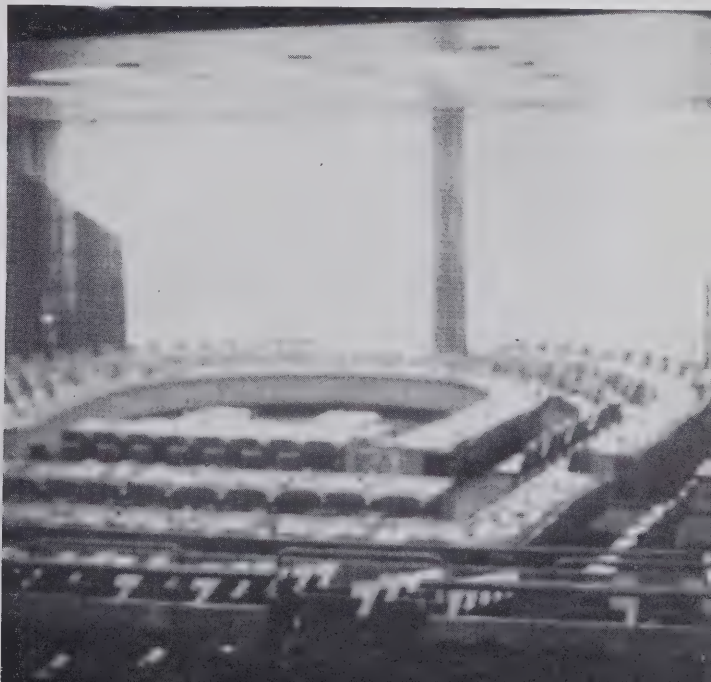

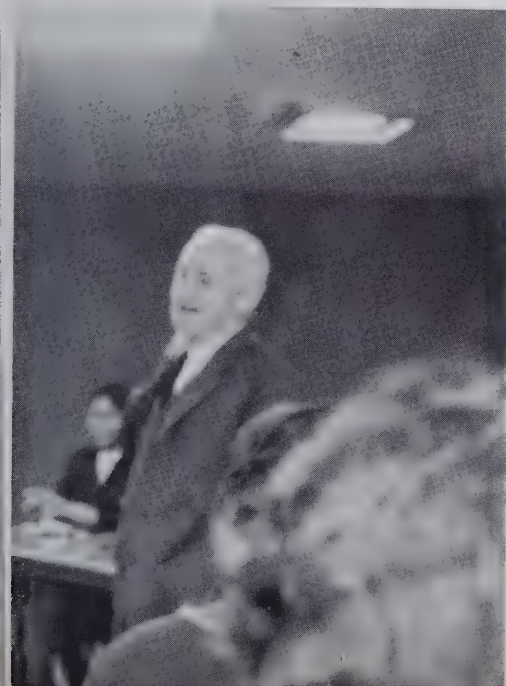

A visit to the United Nations and an opportunity to see a Broadway play, "Advise and Consent" were on the agenda, as well as a stop over in Washington D. C. There students would lunch in the Senate building and attend a session of Congress or watch committee meeting in progress. This portion of the contest was sponsored by the American Freedom Association and the local P.T.A. made the trip a reality for the winning student by assuming the financial responsibility of such a trip.

After narrowing the field to seven semi-finalists, Max Justice was selected and he and his sponsor Mrs. Nickell had only a few short weeks to plan for an exciting visit to the Nation's capitol and the headquarters of the United Nations.

Seniors chose a serious theme, "Moonlight and Roses", for the class day program. The Class Prophecy, Class History, and Last Will and Testament were delivered. Senior girls, dressed in formals, were seated upon the stage, and the boys added a humorous touch with their skits, "Frankie and Johnny", and "Romeo and Juliet". These hilarious numbers were, of course, the most popular part of the program. After songs and dances by the girls, the program was concluded with an exchange of class songs between Juniors and Seniors. Following this formal farewell the Juniors formed an arch, capped with daisy bouquets, through which the Seniors departed.

First Graduating Class Receives Diplomas

On June 1, 1961 the first graduating class of East Henderson High School marched to "Pomp and Circumstance." Parents, friends, and relatives of the 144 graduates packed the auditorium. Gold honor cords of Beta Club members sparkled among the grey robes. Seven students of high scholastic achievement occupied the honor positions usually reserved for Valedictorian and Salutatorian. Probably the honor block will become a tradition, as it more fairly represents the outstanding students of a class. Three honor students, Susan Davis, Ronnie Oates, and Joe Garrett delivered short speeches and after a word of farewell from Mr. Justus the diplomas were awarded. East Henderson has delivered its first graduates to the world of business and higher learning.

Beatniks! Beatniks were everywhere as Greenwich Village recruited all our Juniors. Our education was complete when they treated us to a beatnik assembly on Junior Class Day. Greenwich celebrities were presented and "The Gruesome Two-some plus One", the "Froggie Trio", and the Lonesome Lovers moaned and thumped out a few tunes. The program was sponsored by Goldbrick and Goldbrick (makers of measles tape) and the movie company featuring mighty See-more. As the day wore on we recognized a few friends and acquaintances under the bizarre costumes. Eventually all was back to normal, but the day when Beatniks disrupted East High has gone down in history, never to be forgotten.

The Thinker

The sophomores went one better than our government's scientists and turned back the sands of time. The gay twenties were here again. With flappers, gangsters, and prohibition they lived it up for an hour in the famous speakeasy, "Blue Moon."

Headlining the star-studded floor show was Mrs. Davis, 9th grade English teacher, who taught us all about the educated bugs. In rapid succession came Dennis Kronenfeld as the worried father and Billy McClure and Bert King as two good-for-nothing fishermen. As a grand finale the customers were treated to a gay-twenties French chorus line.

As the applause faded all agreed that the venture into time travel had been highly successful.

"School Days"

Being a Freshman is perhaps the most difficult task for a high school student. Planning our own class day 1961 was a new and challenging experience. Marie Morrow's school room had little discipline, especially with her two intellectuals, Paul Levi and Eddie Lindsey. Remember "Dangerous Dan" Figart who eliminates "Evil Elley" DeLozier? "Hot Rod" Haseltine called the plays at the faculty-freshman basketball game.

East High Goes Gay Paree!

The place—the East Henderson High gym. The theme—April in Paris. The event—the first Junior-Senior banquet held in the new school. Entertained by song and dance, wine and dined with food from a French menu, the Juniors and Seniors took a night off away from the cares and worries of school life to enjoy a soiree in French atmosphere.

Imported straight from Paris for the occasion was an original French chorus line (sophomores to you and me); four young madmoiselles singing a French song; and three burly messieurs, French too we think, who sang 'Froggy' (with a French accent, of course). The atmosphere was further enhanced by the lovely decorations and silhouette of the Eiffel Tower.

Combined with an informal speech by Mr. Tom Cassidy and a delicious dinner, the evening flowed smoothly along.

Miss Hi Miss

The Beta Club is proud to present Miss Sandra Anders as Miss Hi Miss of 1962. Sandra's glowing personality and natural friendliness have made her popular with all. Her school record shows clearly that she works seriously and earnestly to do her very best. She excels not only in classwork, but also in the extracurricular activities in which she participates. By her interest and participation in these activities, she has not only added to her own knowledge, but also has benefited the clubs and their members. Sandra fulfills in every way the Beta standards of honesty, service, and leadership.

Miss Highlander

The Highlander presents the first Miss Highlander, Patricia Lewis. Each year the staff wishes to recognize a senior girl who has contributed her talents to the school and applied herself in every class. Patricia has given much of her time and skill to East High. If we traced her progress through the years, we would find that she has consistently done her best. Her fine character and attractiveness have made East High proud to claim her as a representative of our school.

New Members Inducted Into Honor Society

The Beta Club is composed of outstanding Juniors and Seniors and is a leadership-service organization which encourages students to prepare for college. To inspire worthy students, the club awards an achievement pin to those students making A's in every subject for the entire year.

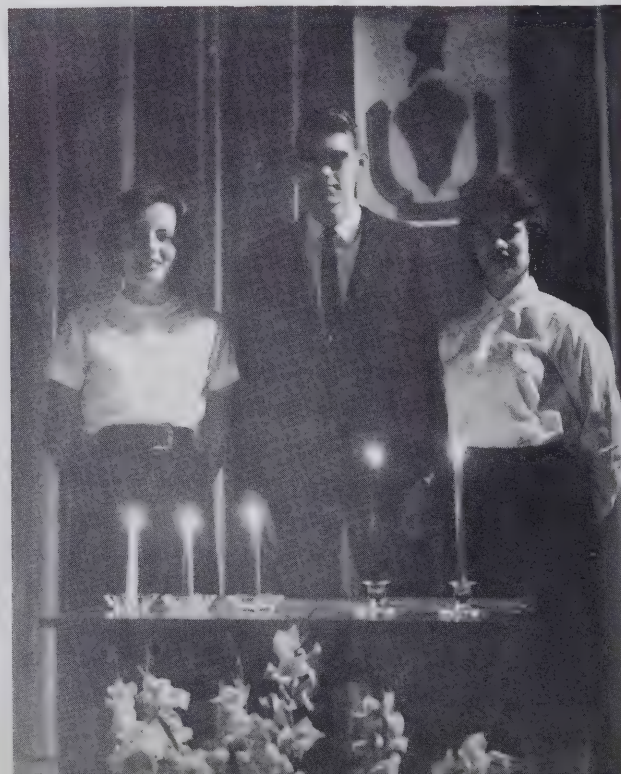

Substitute teaching is done by the members during a teacher's absence. In this way the club performs a service to the school and makes money to help finance the annual Beta Club convention trip.

Character, leadership, and scholarship are the underlying fundamentals of this club. These high goals encourage students to attain the honor of membership.

Student Store Prospers Under Student Council

Though new, the Student Council at East High has developed into an active and effective organization. In its brief history it has written a constitution and opened a student store in addition to its regular duties. But its most important contribution has been to instill in the student body a sense of pride in and loyalty toward our school.

Entering building A at noon, you are invariably met with the faint strains of a melody. A curious glance into the auditorium will solve the mystery. There upon the stage is the chorus and perched near the lower step is Mr. Harvey, waving his wand. Three times in two weeks Mr. Harvey instructs the group of budding singers. He also directs the Glee Club, which is limited to the feminine members of the student body. Hours are spent preparing for radio and assembly programs, and even the smallest details are considered. With measured steps they file into position on the stage. The fruits of many hours of rehearsal are becoming apparent in a chorus capable of entertaining all with their hymns and popular melodies.

Staff Works Overtime on Your '62 Annual

Out of the mountain of paper, pictures, and headaches the Highlander staff has created your annual. With the aid and advice of Dick Stratton, editor, and Mrs. Nickell, sponsor, the staff attacked the mountain and molded pictures, art, and paragraphs into pages. The business staff expanded its efforts to raise desperately needed money by staging sock-hops, selling pictures, and soliciting ads. After many long hours the gigantic jig-saw puzzle neared completion but deadlines loomed ominously. Effort was doubled. Under stress and strain the staff and their editor worked frantically. The hardy staff toiled on and lived to experience the great calm after deadlines were met. To their determination we owe our year-book, the Highlander.

Varied Projects Keep

The East Henderson High Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America has fully carried out its theme, 'What Youth Can Do'. They have prepared gifts for the mental hospitals and fruits and flowers for the patients at Stony Mountain Rest Home.

The chapter has been well represented in state and county events, including the Leadership Workshop for officers. There the officers gain a better understanding of their duties.

On November 18, representatives from our F.H.A. club joined other North Carolina girls in attending Home Economics Day at Cullowhee College. The program demonstrated the many careers offered in the field of Home Economics.

October 16 was Smile Day for the F.H.A. girls of Henderson County. Classrooms were dotted with girls whose collars sported smiling paper faces. Every member wore the traditional red and white of the F.H.A.

The Future Farmers of America is a national organization dedicated to the edification of tomorrow's farmers. It encourages the development of agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship in each of its members.

Our chapter here at East High actively participates in many state, area, and school activities. Each year as a culmination of the year's work the chapter attends the state convention at Raleigh. There, by exchanging techniques and ideas with other chapters, we are able to improve ourselves. The chapter has placed high in the local soil judging contests and from past performances expect to do very well in the coming tool and cattle judging contests. The most successful field trip was made to Clemson College to study advanced farming methods.

All work however is not on the chapter level. Besides those special activities, individuals are continually working on a program of Chapter, State, and National Degrees.

Keeping a library in its best working condition is a tremendous task. Each book must be filed, properly labeled, and in its own specific position on the shelf. The librarian and her assistants must keep records of which books are borrowed and when they should be returned. By ordering new books, devising better check-out systems, and rearranging the classes of books on the shelves they have not only paved a smooth road to good reading but also have improved their efficiency and service. Through their efforts the pleasure of reading a good book is available to every student at East High.

Bible Club Serves Community

The Bible Club of East High strives to promote a better understanding of the Bible through its biweekly programs. Guest speakers, including ministers, missionaries, teachers, and musicians, have aided the group in their study of the Old and New Testament. The Bible Club has presented several programs for the student body and has made bulletin board displays for the Administration building. During the Christmas season they delivered gum-drop trees which they had made for the hospital. The members of the Bible Club have shown through their service to others that they try to live by as well as learn from the Bible.

The Future Nurses Club of East Henderson High School is the only chartered club of its kind in Henderson County. It provides a setting in which young people, interested in nursing as a career, can explore the opportunities and requirements of the field. They grow as individuals by working together and by learning about the community in which they will soon participate as informed citizens and possibly as nurses.

By visiting three hospitals, the group has gained a clear picture of routine hospital activities. They plan to visit two others in the spring and have donated their time to help the Heart Fund and hospital of our community by selling heart pins and balloons.

By sponsoring and promoting two rummage sales and a Christmas dance, they have added to the treasury funds.

The club is responsible for the first aid room in the school and a point system has been set up so that each member must earn 500 points before he receives a pin. Nurses from hospitals in the community have spoken to the club.

Every Thursday and Friday the bandroom echoes with the sounds of stomping feet and blaring western dance music. The whirling maelstroms become familiar students. The intricacies of the dances are soon memorized and the couples are ready to try another. Such endless wells of energy amazed the student body when the dancers participated in a program. However the adjective, "advanced," does not mean without error. Occasionally a circle left might end up circling right, but this only adds to the flavor of square dancing. For these students exercise and enjoyment are found in the familiar call, "Promenade!"

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Vice President: FRED COLLINS

President: DAVID GILBERT

Secretary-Treasurer: SAUNDRA ANDERS

We are the Seniors. Four years of high school lie behind us, successfully completed. These years, full of humorous and nostalgic memories of when we were underclassmen, when we thought we knew it all, when we first explored a new school after a long awaited consolidation, are now giving way to a new step toward the future.

Whether we are to take up a life's vocation or further our education, we once again become novices. This year we have added the fourth and last dimension to our life—time. With time comes experience and with experience assurance in ourselves and our abilities.

We, the Junior class, are about to become Seniors. In so doing we assume the responsibility for the leadership of our school. For three years we have trained for this day. To provide that leadership we have built up an effective class organization. We have created its newspaper to voice the ideas of that school. In those three years we have gained knowledge, ability, and a confidence in ourselves. We need now only that fourth and last dimension, the experience that comes with time, to make us useful citizens.

Secretary-Treasurer	PATRICIA BRADY
President	MIKE JONES
Vice President	BRENDA HILL

We are the Sophomores. No longer novices, we have continued growing. Our interest has expanded outside the narrow sphere around ourselves and has begun to include our school's affairs and its programs. Our circle of friends has grown to include upper classmen and Freshmen. We have become more unified in spirit and confidence. We are yet limited in range as the plane but the promise of added dimensions is only a little ahead of us.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

Vice President	JUDY PACE
President	TIMMY MULLINAX
Secretary-Treasurer	PAT McCARSON

We are the Freshmen. In completing our first year of high school, we have added a new dimension to our lives. From grammar school where we were subordinate to authority and content with decisions made for us, we have grown. We have acquired awareness.

We take an active interest in this school we attend. We are cognizant of and participate in her athletics and her clubs. Class spirit, no longer just a word, becomes a reality. We look forward to the time when we too will be upperclassmen.

Eagles Gain Experience

Berry creams West player trying an end run.

Randy (Toe) Simpson gets off another 40 yard punt.

Coached by Sam Reese the East Henderson Eagles began their first year of football. The inexperienced Eagles ran hot and cold through the season. They showed up well against Bethel and Reynolds but slowed their pace in contests against Erwin and North Buncombe.

Although losing both games to arch rival West High, the Falcons knew they had played a hard hitting team.

Outplaying their opponents everywhere but on the scoreboard, the Eagles lost to the Yellowjackets of Edneyville on breakaway runs by the Jacket's speedy quarterback. The Eagles scored their first six points of the season on a quickie pass to Fred Capps who ran over Jacket defenders for the tally.

East's only member of the all-conference squad, Co-Captain and fullback, Larry Williams, led the scoring for the Green and White. Going over twice on short plunges up the middle, he ran over husky guards and linebackers for important yardage.

East contributed two honorable mentions to the All-Conference squad; defensive end, Dennis Kronenfeld and tackle Harold Corn. Corn and Kronenfeld anchored down the left side of the Eagle's defensive line while Ronald Beddingfield and Leon Pryor held the right side.

The Eagles boast three members of the All-County team, Fullback, Larry Williams, end Dennis Kronenfeld and tackle Harold Corn.

For GENERAL ELECTRIC

— now at Outdoor Lighting Headquarters

Women High School Graduates who want to serve industry in a rewarding, highly creative fashion should consider the career opportunities in the executive secretarial science field which additional years of study may provide.

General Electric's Outdoor Lighting headquarters operation at Hendersonville, and other industries in Western North Carolina, have an unmet need for truly executive type secretaries.

Outstanding skills in shorthand and typing are basic foundations. But additional "arts" in secretarial science — learned and acquired — are necessary for those who are seriously career-minded. Basic skills, aptitude, good grooming, initiative, grace and charm, along with the "common sense" facility for relieving her manager of much detail . . . these are the requirements for the type secretary General Electric and others are seeking.

For Both Men and Women — indeed, General Electric is looking for people who are prepared for the wide variety of assignments available in the electrical industry. Opportunities are open from time to time for machine operators, assemblers, skilled maintenance men, tool and die makers, design engineers, secretaries, laboratory technicians, accountants, sales engineers, marketing research experts, draftsmen, process engineers and others.

If you would like to explore the possibilities of a career in the rapidly growing electrical industry — leading to assignments in Hendersonville or elsewhere with General Electric — the Employment Specialist in Employee Relations will be glad to talk with you. Call him for an appointment at OXford 2-1431.

Before applying, of course, you will want to consider very carefully your qualifications and willingness to invest your best efforts. General Electric job opportunities represent some of the finest available. Thus, the Department is looking for persons with exceptional qualifications in terms of education, experience, aptitude, and willingness to work. All candidates must have completed high school with a good record; and of course many positions require additional years of education and experience.

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, creed, color or national origin.
